News from the Commissioner: The FBNML? That's right, 1990 will be the 1st year of minor league action in the FBN. There will be one team representing each division. I will use the players from the first roster cuts to start with. If you want to make changes at roster updates just mail me your cuts and recalls. This is completely optional. I'm doing it because I have some spare time now that I am not in charge of the newsletter.

Reporting dates. You can report as many games for Won/Lost as you have played. Everyone wants the newsletter as up to date as possible. But, for the stats what we are trying to do is make the stats meaningful at each report. If everyone would please report the stats for the number of games in parenthesis it would make the stats more meaningful. Try reporting the stats for these (games) starting from the 6/12 (56 games). NO -BP's are involved here I'm just asking for your help. Thanks.

WELCOME new backup manager Ralph G. Billings P.O.Box 360762 Melbourne, FL 32936. I am a 46 year old baseball fanatic, one of the biggest Cleveland Indians' fan alive. To be a tribe fan, you have to be either a fanatic (or certified looney). Incidentally, if I do end up in the Fly-By Night, I will give all my worldly goods and the draft rights to my first born (a baseball player) in order to obtain Cory Snyder.

My twenty year old son, who is currently away in college, taught me to play strat approximately 6 years ago; I was hooked on it before that weekend was over. I've been fortunate to have learned the S-O-M intricacies from "Strat-Masters" such as Steve Walters and John Lamanna. A few years back, I played in a now defunct league with Steve and John, which resulted in lasting friendships with both. Steve only lives 75 minutes away from us, which allows us to play are games face-to-face.

I've been known to drive the 200 plus miles to Miami and also Jacksonville and St. Pete to play strat face-to-face, and endure the miserable ride back home after losing six of eight. But two weeks later I'm on the road again. Have I described a fanatic yet?

On the more serious side, I'm a Legal Investigator for one of the largest Personal Injury Law Firms on the Florida east coast. My background with the insurance claims industry and the judicial system, couple eith a Master's degree in Criminal Justice have helped me land what I consider to be the ultimate job.

With our son away in school, my wife Diane and I find our townhome suddenly quiet, allowing me to devote even more time to my STRAT-O-PASSION
